

Catherine de Zegher // Women's Work Is Never Done Collected Essays on Women Artists. An Anthology

In this impressive anthology, internationally acclaimed curator and director Catherine de Zegher compiles 25 influential essays on women artists from the numerous books she has written and edited throughout her career. Like many of de Zegher's previous projects and books, Women's Work Is Never Done promotes the feminine principle, showcasing the work of female artists from across the world. Through her approach to art often as a global reach, de Zegher directs her attention deeper, to the intimate and the relational, to the specific work and the distinctive project of each artist.
