

No Order Art in a Post-Fordist Society

No Order editorial research focuses on the relationships between contemporary art systems and capitalism's production processes. By means of an investigation into current creative industries - and their social, economic and semiotic assemblages - the contributions (essays, interviews and dialogues as well as artists' projects) aim to deconstruct, analyse and intervene within the ambit of the procedures and forms of cognitive capitalism. It will concentrate, in particular, on the phenomena of the 'biennialisation', 'financialisation' and 'spectacularisation' of the political, beginning with the control and distribution of forms of artistic education, production and display on a global scale.

The Editorial Board is comprised of a series of transversal figures from various geographic and cultural environments, and includes Asef Bayat, Harun Farocki, Peter Friedl, Maurizio Lazzarato, Sylvère Lotringer, Achille Mbembe, Angela Melitopoulos, Christian Marazzi, Nelly Richard, Florian Schneider, Nomeda & Gediminas Urbonas and Françoise Vergès.
